KATCHA-KOO CLASSY MUSICAL COMEDY

Capacity House At the High School Auditorium Last Night Applauds the Work of Those Assuming the Various Roles

THE CAST IS WELL ENACTED

Specialties Also Feature, With the McCleary Sisters, Solo Dancing of Miss Louise Anderson, And the Act of Bobby Behrendt

It is a wellknown fact that whatever the Charleroi Volunteer Fire Department undertakes it is bound to be a success, and the first appearance of Katcha-Koo, a two- act musical comedy, has proved that once more they have been the sponsor of a high class entertainment, the first of its kind in Charleroi, and very much of a success. Katcha-Koo pleased a capacity house last night and after the news of its wonders are widely spread today, it is expected that standing room will be at a premium this evening and also tomorrow night. Too much cannot be said of the performance that has been succesfully shown throughout the western states —the lighting effects, the color scheme, the singing, the perfectly trained chorus, the dancing, and the effective orchestral accompaniments are among those picked out for commendation, a nd which all lent interest and success to the performance.

The curtain parted on a scene in India, with Loren Tope, Charleroi's Hollywood production, the outstanding figure, as Katcha-Koo, an Indian fakir. Mr. Tope's presence on the stage always keeps things going and he made a decided hit last night. Earl Nicholson was a well-chosen character for the masterful Maharajah of Hunga, a ruler who had all his subjects flee to do his bidding. He was well supported by W. H. Clipman as Dick Horton, collector of antiques and Claude McKenna, as Harry Bradstone, whose adventures put them in a tight place at a time in their efforts to elude the issue afforded much amusement. Solejah, a wizard's widow and Urbanah, a high prestess were active roles splendidly presented by Miss Edna Welch and Miss Grace Anderson. Their droll pessimism brought forth much applause and many peals of laughter. The appearance of Mrs. Chattie Gladdin, an American widow, which was portrayed by Miss Elva Majors, and her two beautiful daughters, Dolly and Prudence, presented by Miss Ethel Barth and Miss Irene Jones, brought new interest. The duets sung by Miss Barth and Mr. Clipman and Miss Jones and Mr. McKenna, were outstanding attractions that were well applauded. Maharajah had four beautiful wives, which roles were well-taken by Miss Marie Riva, Miss Irene Pardiny, Miss Ena Riva and Miss Marie Lancaster. Ernest Howard as Boody Bah, a slave, was Maharajah's bodyguard.

In addition to the clever dancing, the chorus work and the singing, there was other high class entertainment that was highly appreciated, thus making the time fly rapidly without any lagging moments. The wellknown McCleary sisters, of Monongahela, impersonated the famous Duncan sisters, an impersonation that promises to outclass their s uccessors. The solo dancing of Miss Louise Anderson of Monongahela was a high-class feature that was much enjoyed. Bobby Behrendt's act was very good and was interspersed with great applause.

This wonderful production was staged by James S. Russell, the music and dances were under the supervision of Miss Ethel Goldsmith, while chorus numbers were conducted by W. O. Williams of Monessen. Great credit is due these artists, whose untiring efforts contributed towards making the affair such a grand success.

The proceeds of Katcha-Koo will go towards the payment of the wonderful new aerial truck that was seen traversing the streets of Charleroi yesterday afternoon, further embellished by the fair damsels who assumed roles in Katcha-Koo.

A DOCTOR STRIKES OIL

Dr. Yarnall of California struck oil in his No. 3 well, on his farm last week.

This well had been a million gas producing well and was drilled deeper and oil came in. The drillers took out seven bailers full of it and it proved to be high grade stuff. The doctor says it looks like it could be put right in the car without refining.

The strike was made in the Elizabeth sand at a depth of about 2,600 feet. It is the intention of the owner to drill still deeper as the drill is only two feet in the sand.

To Be Formed At Cleveland On July Fourth

Allentown, May 15—The Farmer Labor party will send its delegates to the Cleveland, Ohio, conference on July 4 for a formation of the National Farmer Labor party, and not [illegible] which will be scheduled for June 17 for the same purpose.

This decision was reached on Wednesday night at a session with the Farmer Labor convention in the Eagles home after a prolonged discussion of six hours. A. H. Merrick of Pittsburgh was one of the leading [illegible] St. Paul convention. Most of those who favored St. Paul for the convention were from Washington county, among whom was D. T. Cushine of Canonsburg.

With the adoption of a platform and the election of officers at the convention brought it to a close at midnight. The following officers were elected: Charles Kutz, Altoona, president; Paul W. Fuller, Pittsburgh, secretary and treasurer; A. T. McNaia, Pittsburgh; R. C. Small, Canonsburg; John Letter, Philadelphia; William A. Guiler, Charleroi; John Otis, Turtle Creek; Fred H. Murray and William Welch, Nanti-Glo, members of the executive committee.

Better Homes Week From May 11 To 18

"Better homes" for industrial and other workers are being featured in a number of demonstrations held in various localities with the counsel and assistance of the National [illegible] Better Homes in America.

Better Homes Week, May 11 to 18, will witness, in most of the communities participating, demonstrations of new houses costing from $4,000 to $7,000. But the small cost at which old dilapidated houses can be remodeled and made into real "better homes" will be illustrated in [illegible] communities.

The campaign next year, according to present plans, will put even more emphasis on such demonstrations in the manufacturing towns and cities all over the United States. This year's educational efforts, however, include this type of dwelling, though specially emphasizing the means of providing the best possible home from the points of view of economy, comfort, and beauty for all American families of small or moderate means. Industrial home improvement received a notable s tart during last year's

TO CLOSE BREWERY FOR ABOUT A YEAR

Agreement Relative to the Crescent Brewery At Washington Prepared And Entered Into And Same Approved By the Court

BEER IS TO BE DESTROYED

If Any Remains At the Plant—Company Is to Hold a Meeting And Officers And Directors Will, It Is Said, Officially Authorize Agreement

The Crescent Brewery at Washington will be closed, it is said for one year at least, by the terms of an agreement and stipulation prepared by District Attorney Howard W. Hughes, approved by the court and agreed to by officers of the brewing company. If there is any beer at the plant, it will be destroyed. The names or local men appear on its roster of officers.

Last week the brewery was raided, and 22 barrels of genuine beer was confiscated, and the b rewmaster and five employes of the plant were arrested. The beer had not, it is reported, gone through the de-alcoholizing process as required by law after it is made.

It is said that the Crescent Brewing Company corporation has not had a permit to manufacture any liquor at this brewery since April 7, last; that any liquor made there since that time if any were made, or any disposed of, was without legal sanction.

Having agreed to the requirements as set forth in this agreement and stipulation, the company will at once hold a meeting of its officers and directors and officially authorize the signing of this agreement and stipulation. The corporation and these employes are all under prosecution for violation of the liquor laws and under bail for appearance at the August term of court. It is understoond that pleas of guilty will be entered to these charges, as a further move in the disposition of the prosecutions growing out of the raid on this plant.

The officers of the company, as shown by the records of the prohibition director, are president, F. Bernarding, of Charleroi; vice president, W. R. Gaut, Charleroi; secretary and treasurer, Frank J. Zwick, Fredericktown; directors, Eastman

BASIL GRAY IS HONORED

Basil G. Gray of Roscoe, brother of the late Sheriff Alexander Gray of this county, has been elected to the Parmi Nous, upper class campus society, membership in which is based on general popularity and ability.

He is a member of the sophomore class in the dairy husbandry course. Gray was signally honored last fall when he was elected captain of the Penn State Football team for 1924, although a sophomore completing his first year on the team. He belongs to the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Pittsburgh Man Is Convicted Of Driving Car While Intoxicated

Sol Roman, a young man of Pittsburgh, was convicted before Judge Erwin Cummins yesterday afternoon, of a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was sentenced to pay the costs, fine of $200 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 20 days. Roman, at the time of the accident, which resulted in his arrest for driving a car while drunk, had been hired by Alfred Goltsman, of Pittsburgh, to drive him to West Brownsville.

In passing sentence, Judge Cummins impressed upon Goltsman who was present in Roman's interests, that he Goltsman, was under the law, just as liable as Roman in allowing a man he had hired to drive a car while intoxicated. The court suggested to Goltsman that he should pay the fine imposed on Roman and that he should also, make some settlement of the damage done to the automobile wrecked by the car driven by Roman. This damage amounts to about $187.

The accident occurred on a road in this county and the car damaged was driven by Mrs. Hallie Taylor, of California. Several witnesses testified that Roman was visibly under influence of liquor right after the accident and that liquor was smelled on his breath. Roman made a complete denial that he was drunk or had been drinking that day.

GRETZ'S TROUBLES ARE ON THE INCREASE

William J. Gretz, aged 20, who was placed under arrest here Monday afternoon after he had attempted to pass a forged check in exchange for goods purchased at the jewelry store of Abe Levinson, has been turned over to Constable Harry Bieter, of North Belle Vernon. He will have a hearing this afternoon before Alderman J. B. White of Monessen, on a charge of forgery. A more serious charge was about to be placed on the man, owing to the critical condition of Betty Pucciana, 17-year-old Duquesne girl, with whom he has been living for the past six months, but Gretz agreed to marry the girl and today they made application for marriage license, the ceremony probably to be performed tomorrow. Unless the case is definitely settled this afternoon, the groom will be taken to the Greensburg jail, while his bride will be returned to her parents in Duquesne.

Coolidge Vetoes The Bonus Bill

Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge today vetoed the Soldier Bonus and Insurance bill on the ground that the measure would prove too great a drain on the nation's finances.

A report to this effect was made to the President by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and General Lord, director of the budget.

In a long veto message sent to congress today the president once more stressed the necessity of government economy.

Senate Is Squabbling Over The Reduction Of Railroad Rates

Washington, May 15—The entire legislative program of Congress became involved today in the Senate squabble over reduction of railroad rates.

For three days the Progressive-Democratic coalition has held up an appropriation bill with their drive for adoption of the Gooding "long and short haul" bill aimed at the railroads.

The cry of "filibuster" has been raised by Republicans who say the House will kill any attempt to attach the Progressive rail program to the war department appropriation measure.

Senator Smith, South Carolina, said today he would call the senate interstate commerce committee together this week for a vote on repeal of the rate-making clause in the present rate law. The committee is expected to report it out.

A bill repealing the Pullman surcharge also may be reported out simultaneously.

The bill abolishing the railroad labor board, will be reported from the sub committee to the full committee today, but it is doubtful that it ever will get to the Senate floor.

TO CROWN QUEEN OF MAY SUNDAY EVENING

Under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Sodality, St. Jerome's Catholic church will be the scene of the annual May day celebration. "The Crowning of the May Queen," next Sunday evening, May 18, at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. William D. Fries, pastor of the church, will be the officiating priest assisted by a number of visiting priests, among whom will be the Rev. Carl A. Demorest, assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church, Pittsburgh, who has signified his intention of being present on this occasion.

According to the detailed plans made, the procession will be beautiful and starts from the Lyceum around to the Washington Avenue entrance. There will be 24 altar boys in the lead, followed by the members of the Sodality. Following the Sodality members there will be 30 small flower girls, ranging in age from 4 to 6, carrying baskets filled with flowers and will appear in dresses of pink, blue, yellow and orchid. A hundred Sunday school girls, ranging in age from 8 to 12, will be next in line. These girls will be dressed in white and form an arch with canes under which the Queen and her court will pass. Two small crown bearers will lead the Queen's court, in the persons of Betty Cantwell and Victor Rehula. The seven ladies in waiting who will appear in white with hat to match and carrying light pink roses tied with yellow chiffon, will follow. These young ladies are: Bibane Yost, Lillian Calistri, Kathryn Riley, Evelyn Chico, Alice Gillon, Virginia Martinett and Margaret Comer. Miss Anna Carroll prefect of the Sodality, is to be the Queen of May, and will appear in white satin with a long court train over which will fall a tulle veil which will be caught to the head. The Queen is to be followed by two train bearers, Dorothy Ann Kilroy, and Rita Carroll. The two maids of honor, who are to be attired in white crepe de chene dresses with hat to correspond and carrying deep pink roses tied with pink chiffon, will be the last in line. The two young ladies on whom this honor falls are Amelia Wheeler and Helen Carroll.

Upon the arrival of the Queen at the altar she will be crowned, to be followed by the reception of 20 new members, [illegible] delivered, benediction pronounced, and the blessed sacrament conferred.

The altar is to be decorated with palms, ferns, and white flowers and special music will feature.

In the selection of the girls to participate, the prefect was chosen Queen, while those who have not missed a Sunday meeting during the past year, were selected as maids of honor, and the decending honors [illegible] accordingly.

COOLIDGE PROBABLY TO VETO BONUS BILL

Washington, May 15. — President Coolidge today is expected to veto the insurance soldier bonus bill.

The president has been working on his veto message for a day or two, and now is understood virtually to have completed it.

The message returning the bonus measure to congress will be based on the argument that the nation's finances cannot stand the drain involved in the proposed law.

While the expectation is that the president will act on the bill today he has until Friday midnight before the measure automatically would become a law without his signature.

There is believed, however, to be no reason for postponing action when Mr. Coolidge has completed his message.

With the expected veto the president will be faced with another test of his program of economy and tax reduction whether congress will sustain his action or pass the bill over the veto.

"BOYS' DAY AT HOME"

Friday is "Boys' Day at Home."

The purpose of the day at home is to emphasize the home as the greatest institution on earth for character building and good citizenship. This is an opportunity for the parents to make the home a gala occasion for the boy. Everything done in the home for the boy should be for the boy that he may appreciate the love that his parents have for him. Give the boy the surprise of his life and convince him that home is the best place to be. If you don't have a boy of your own, find a homeless one and add him to your family circle for the evening.

DeMarco And Rini In Final Show At McKeesport Tonight

The curtain will be rung down this evening on the boxing season at McKeesport, when the Majestic Club puts on its final show at the Palisades rink.

Tonight's card is featured by a 10-round meeting between Cuddy DeMarco, of Charleroi, and Johnny Rini, of Cleveland, rivals who are capable of giving the fans a fine run for their money. The boys will scale around 135 pounds, and both should be at their best at that figure. Rini has a classy record and is confident of his ability to give DeMarco as good as he is compelled to take from the Western Pennsylvanian.

DeMarco, on the other hand, is eager to escape a setback at this time, and plans to carry the battle to Rini without any delay. Hopeful of piling up sufficient points in the early rounds to give him a safe lead.

The semi-final bout will bring together Teddy Welsh, of the Tube City, and Sig Keppen, of Beaver Falls, over the six-round route. In the second number Paul Depplot of Elizabeth, and Frankie Whray of Jeannette 155-pound boys and newcomers to the Tube City, will furnish the excitement, while in the opener a pair of 121-pounders, Lee Mortimer of Homestead, and Tony Sortoise of Elizabeth, will tangle. The show opens at 8:30 daylight saving time, and a big turnout is looked for.

THE PIRATES WILL MEET THE PHILLIES TODAY

Jupiter Pluvius, first cousin to Rain-in-the-Face, full brother to General Showers and great uncle of Sam Watters, again anchored his leaky old sloop in the Oakland offing yesterday, thereby side-tracking the scheduled combat between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia baseball clubs To make up for this joy-killing orgy on the part of the old spigot wizard, local fans will be furnished with two frolics for one admission ticket on Monday, August 25, when the Quakers are due to begin their farewell series of the season on Forbes Field.

The deluge descended during the night and yesterday morning leaving Buccaneer commons in a condition which brought recollections of the Everglades and precluded any possibility of staging the national pastime. As usual, morning practice was out of the question and all that was left for the Corsairs to do was gather around the edge of the lot and watch Jack Fogarty and his gallant gang of groundkeepers as they broomed the puddles of water off the huge tarpaulin.

The Pirates will try and meet Philadelphia today.

BETTER HOMES WEEK FROM MAY 11 TO 18

Better Homes in America campaign through the example set by Natalie, Pennsylvania, when the whole mining town took part and improved not only home as a demonstration, but every home within the town of Natalie.

Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, is to have a unique "better home" demonstration this year, taking two typical old industrial worker's houses and remodeling one of them. This will show convincingly how old properties can be made over into true homes and will offer a vivid contrast between conditions as they usually are and conditions as they might be.

Bessemer, Alabama, an industrial community, will have a better homes demonstration. Gaffney, South Carolina, will demonstrate an improved mill worker's cottage. St. Helena's nation-wide contest last year, will again demonstrate a negro cottage constructed at minimum cost. Greenville, South Carolina, will demonstrate two "better homes"—one for a poor family, another for a family of moderate means Anderson, South Carolina will [illegible] demonstration of two similar homes.

On the other side of the continent, Hollister, California, will demonstrate a "better home" for wage earners. Salem, Oregon, is following suit by building a $4,000 bungalow. McAlester, Oklahoma, located close to the south-western coal fields, will demonstrate a remodeled bungalow for families of the wage earning class.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, will have two "better homes" demonstrations—one of a home to cost not more than $4,400—a price within the reach of industrial workers—and another to cost about $8,500.

Business English Is Growing Much Better

Business English is growing better. So says Mrs. Alta Gunn Saunders, director of business English work at the University of Illinois. She believes the English of sales letters has reached a standard as high as the general standard in advertising and in journalism

To her way of thinking awkwardness and crudities of style are disappearing. She sees greater consideration for the artistic quality of the descriptive and narrative parts of letters. Slang, colloquialisms or slouchy English she would not have—she likes her English "moral, social and artistic." Evolving is "a free, plain, trandesmanlike style becoming to the nature of its subject matter."

But where shall we tap the source of that style? Familiar is the sign "Tradesman's Entrance." Under that sign is a portal to give admittance to the crisp speeches of butchers, bakers and candlestick makers—men of importance with scant time to dress words in ceremonies of speech. From them come no "stereotyped and inflated diction," condemned by Mrs. Saunders. Their words get up and walk around in our ears. Their words carry the tang and savor of their business. Possibly it might be desirable to denature the raw material of their conversations before drawing upon them for letters, but if men's minds are to be [illegible] for a crop of sales, success will be no nearer for calling the spade an "oblong instrument of manual husbandry."—Nation's Business.

New York Woman Acts as Surgeon for Birds

Acting as a surgeon for birds is the occupation of a New York woman who performs operations upon her feathered charges and cares for their various ills. Rheumatism, indigestion and fevers are some of the ailments she has treated. Surgical operations are performed in a completely equipped room on the third floor of the hospital she maintains. With several assistants, she is called upon to minister to the needs of more than 2,000 birds in the summer months when families leave for vacations and bring their pets to be "boarded" in the wards of the hospital while they are gone The birds like to be amused [illegible] interesting characteristics, their keeper declares Balls, beads and ribbons hung from the cages keep them from pulling out their plumage and music from a phonograph seems to cheer them when their own songs are silenced.—Popular Mechanics

The bird has aroused keen interest on the part of Eugene Wood, the coroner and noted sportsman, who last year claimed to have discovered a flock of white crows near Grifton.

Same Knife and Fork

In every meal but three in the last thirty-two years A. E. Flinn of Luray, Va., has used the same knife and fork Both the knife and fork were found by Mr. Flinn, one in the east end of Luray and the other in the west end of the town. The knife and fork have almost been worn out of all semblance of themselves, but it would require a fabulous price for the owner to part with them.

BITS OF CORD MAY SEND MAN TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

New York, May 15.—Similarity between some bits of cord may send Harry Lesser to the electric chair.

The smooth young English thug, whose face is warped and crooked as his soul, but whose outward manner has the Broadway polish, used cord to strangle some of his victims. Other times, they were merely bound.

When he slipped a noose about the jewel-laden throat of Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of the composer, and stripped her of her gems, he made the inevitable mistake and overlooked something. By such a little thing as an empty medicine bottle, neglected on a bathroom shelf, Lesser was traced and caught within 24 hours after his victim was found, half-strangled, the familiar cord nearly buried in the white flesh of her neck.

In such a way, Louise Lawson died. The little Texas musician whose short, mad whirl on Broadway, still is a by-word of that blase street, was strangled to death by one of two men who stole the jewels from her uptown apartment not far from the hotel in which Mrs. Johnson was robbed.

Belief exists that this snug Englishman of half a dozen aliases may indeed be leader of a gang of jewel robbers, whose methods of putting their women victims beyond speech (often, quite carelessly, beyond life) revert back to the strangulation by cord practiced by the thugs of India.

Already the police have found that the cord which nearly cost Mrs. Johnson her life was similar to that which bound the hands and feet of Herbert Bartlett, a silk merchant, robbed by a gang three weeks ago, and to that used in a robbery of the apartment of Mrs. Mildred Ford who already has identified Lesser as her assailant.

RIVER FLOODS NEW $500,000 PARK

Wilkes Barre, Pa., May 15—The Susquehanna river went out of its banks here today, flooding section of the new $100,000 "Kirby park" and lowlands along the West Side.

Reports from up the river this morning indicated that a large volume of water is on its way down, as the creeks and tributaries are swollen by the recent heavy rains, and it is believed the river will reach flood stage here.

AN ORDINANCE

Granting to the Super Oil Company of Speers, Pennsylvania, permission to lay, operate and maintain a pipe line for the transportation and piping of oil, gasoline and like substances and liquids in and along a certain unnamed alley in the Borough of Speers from the point where said alley intersects the side track of the Pennsylvania Railroad now maintained by said Railroad for the unloading of gasoline and oils from railroad cars to the point where said alley touches the plant of the said Super Oil Company at the river end of the said alley: prescribing in the manner in which said pipe line shall be constructed, operated, maintained and supervised; defining the duties and liabilities of the said Super Oil Company in the premises; fixing the annual fee which shall be paid by said Super Oil Company to said Speers Borough to cover the costs of inspection, of said pipe line; indicating the remedies of the Borough of Speers in case of default by the Super Oil Company and providing for the payment of the cost of advertising this Ordinance.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Council of the Borough of Speers, in the County of Washington, and State of Pennsylvania, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same:

Section I. That, subject to the terms, conditions, payments and requirements of this Ordinance, the Super Oil Company of Speers, Pennsylvania, is given and granted permission to lay and maintain, until such time as it shall, by failure to do or perform any of the duties or obligations which are laid upon it by this Ordinance, and which it will assume by acceptance of the terms hereof, for a period of sixty (60) days (or a shorter time under such circumstances as are later herein set forth) after default, a pipe line for the transportation of oil, gasoline, and like substances and liquids, in and along a certain un-named alley in said Borough of Speers from the point where said alley intersects the side track of the Pennsylvania Railroad now maintained by said Railroad for the unloading of gasoline and oils from railroad cars to the point where said alley touches the plant of said Super Oil Company at the river end of said alley.

Section II. That said pipe line shall consist of an iron or steel pipe laid within a larger iron or steel casing, except only under railroad tracks, where sewer tile may be used for the outer casing, and shall be constructed under the supervision and direction of the Street Committee of the Council of the said borough of Speers. All joints, both of inner pipe and of casing, shall be made and kept tight and free from leakage

Section III. In any case of complaint of seepage or leakage of oils or gasoline in the neighborhood of said pipe lines which shall appear to the Council of said Borough, after opportunity has been given to said Super Oil Company to be heard in the matter, to be probably due to leakage from said line, or the casing hereof, notice may be given by said Borough to said Company to uncover said line, or any part thereof, under direction of the Street Committee of the Council of said Borough and make whatever repair may be found to be reasonably necessary, at its own expense, within fifteen (15) days after date of such notice. And, whenever said Company shall fail or neglect to do said work and make such repair within said period of fifteen (15) days the said Borough may do the same, or cause it to be done at the expense of said Company, whereupon it shall be the duty of the said Company to pay the cost of same within fifteen (15) days after presentation of the bill therefor. And whenever said Company shall fail or neglect to pay any such bill within fifteen (15) days after presentation thereof, the said Borough may collect the amount thereof either by suit, or by seizure and sale of sufficient property of the Company within the Borough, if same can be found, both or either, and also, if it so elect, may cut the said pipe line and forever terminate all rights of the said Super Oil Company in the said alley.

Section IV. The said Super Oil Company shall pay to the said Borough of Speers the sum of Twenty-five Dollars ($25) per year, on the first day of every month of January, so long as said pipe line shall be used and operated by said Company, to cover cost of inspection, and, in the event of default for a period of fifteen (15) days in the making of any such payment the said Borough of Speers shall have the same powers as to collection of said annual fee and termination of the right or privelege hereby granted as provided in the last section hereof in case of default in the payment of such bills as in said section mentioned Section V. The cost of publishing this Ordinance in manner required by law shall be paid by said Super Oil Company.

Section VI. This Ordinance shall not go into effect or in any way become binding upon said Borough until its terms and conditions have been accepted in full and without reservation by the said Super Oil Company.

Section VII. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in any way in conflict with this Ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed

Enacted into an Ordinance this 6th day of May 1924.

Forging a Signature Successfully Not Easy

The news published recently that a claim of £125,000 (nominally $650,000) has been made against a great London bank in connection with alleged forgeries has caused a sensation in financial circles. The amount involved is so large that, should the allegations prove correct, the crime will easily rank as one of the greatest of its kind of recent years.

The crime of forgery is comparatively rare. This is probably due to the fact it is one fraught with great difficulty and serious danger.

Bankers have the greatest confidence in their ability to recognize their customer's signatures, and their commercial and legal brethren, who do not act on a signature unless it is verified by that of a witness, must be moved to admiration when they see a bank cashier paying out hundreds of pounds to a perfect stranger on the strength of a single signature on a check, writes a banker in the London Mail.

That their confidence is not misplaced is seen from the fact that a successful forgery practically never takes place, although on a busy day more than a million checks pass through the London clearing house alone, while the check turnover of the British isles is some £80,000,000,000 a year.

It is, indeed, almost impossible to imitate successfully another man's signature. The handwriting may be most carefully copied, but the criminal cannot get that personality and character into the signature which alone are the keynote of its genuineness.

Whooping Cough Cured by X-Ray Treatments

Will the X-Ray prove itself the long looked-for remedy for whooping cough?

A new departure in the treatment of this disease has been inaugurated at the Boston floating hospital, where for the last year patients have been experimented upon with great success says a Boston dispatch to the Kansas City Star.

Dr. Henry L. Bowditch, physician in charge of the hospital, has renewed the treatment of whooping cough with the X Ray, which treatment was discovered in 1911 by a Russian physician, and abandoned by him as impractical

Doctor Bowditch is the pioneer in this method of treatment in the New England states, and while cures in all cases are not effected completely through the agency of the X R y, great things are expected of it in the near future, the doctor said

"Seventy-five per cent of the cases respond to treatment," Doctor Bowditch said. "In a period of two months last year we treated 338 cases with gratifying results.

"This treatment shortens the duration of the disease, lessens the cough and enables the patient to get much needed sleep"

Farmers Using Geysers

Geysers are proving useful adjuncts to farming in Iceland A well-known dye works in that country linked up its factory with water pipes direct from the hot springs, and after using the hot water in the color processes and for heating the factory and the workmen's homes, conducted it through underground pipes laid in fields, which as a result yielded three times as much produce as neighboring fields not so equipped Although from time immemorial the Icelanders have been familiar with geysers, only recently have their industrial uses been seriously considered, and a project is on foot to supply Reykjavik with hot water for heating, bathing and washing purposes from one of the neighboring hot springs.

Inviting Crime

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Junior's," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table.

Mrs Burton unwrapped it. "Why, George'" she exclaimed. "A dog collar of all things!"

"Yes, and I gave $8.50 for it," Mr. Burton related

"Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs Burton. "What on earth? I don't understand! You've always said you had no use on earth for Junior's collar and you wish somebody would steal it!"

"Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on it some one will be sure to steal it now!"

Many Honest Citizens Have Criminal Faces

Have you a criminal face? Of course you haven't, you exclaim indignantly. Yet thousands of absolutely respectable, law-abiding citizens have developed, or are developing criminal faces, remarks London Answers.

How? Because, with defective eyesight, they shirk wearing glasses. Myopic glances, myopic with impaired vision screws his or her eyes up and peers. That's to get a focus; but the effect is to create an appearance of furtiveness, and it depends on the build of a face whether the furtiveness increases to an appearance of craftiness and cunning.

Again, there are thousands of quite sweet-tempered folk who look ill-tempered. Vertical lines run up their forehead as the result of "screwing" their eyes. Thus is a "cross" face made

It may be argued that what a man is in character, and not what he seems to be facially, is what counts But that applies only to those who know him. When we meet a stranger our first judgment of him, our decision whether we shall like him or not, depends to a very great extent on his facial appearance.

That is not to say that plainness, or even ugliness, if not of the repellant type, will make us give an adverse verdict, for charm of manner or speech may frequently cancel these things.

But if the stranger looks at us just because he ought to be wearing glasses, and isn't, or, because of the same omission, looks ill-tempered, what then? We don't take to him. Our judgment is wrong, of course; but he has asked for it.

The very obvious moral is—if you need glasses get them and wear them. In these days we cannot afford to handicap ourselves by letting our faces be our misfortune. What we look like does to any count.

Denizens of the Deep Have Some Human Ways

Fish stories are important items of human experience, and the teeming life of the sea has ups and downs to match any fortune of the land Young oysters, we are told, settle down to work after forty-eight hours of making a splash in their world

Some become pearl manufacturers, and others just hang around the bars —plain old soaks Starfish sometimes visit oyster communities and work the old shell game Will the oysters have made their beds—let them lie in them. And there are the limpets. They prowl around at night, but always in the morning they manage to find their own flats on the old home rock, and so save their faces in the eyes of the community. Ah, those sly, frolicking limpets

And what armories of teeth—whelks have from 220 to 250 each, winkles 3,700, and the umbrella shell about 750 000 to the set What a time there must be when the little umbrella shells are teething. Whelks, mon!

Life at the bottom of the sea is a pretty serious business—Nation's Business.

One on the Pawnbroker

He stood, apparently deep in thought, under the three golden balls which hung above the doorway of the shop.

Presently resolution came to him; he crossed the threshold and inquired of the proprietor "How much will you give me for this coat?"

"A shilling," retorted the pawnbroker, eyeing the shabby garment with undisguised contempt

"Oh, make it 2 shillings" exclaimed the seedy one. 'Hang it all, this coat's worth 5 bob if it's worth a penny!"

'My friend," said the pawnbroker, 'I wouldn't give five shillings for two overcoats like that—no, certainly I couldn't'

"Come, come!" replied the seedy one, persuasively "Would you take a shilling for it if the coat were yours?"

"Yes and thank I'd done well!"

"Ah, then, that's all right. Here's your bob I found the coat outside and brought it in to see how much it was really worth"—Toronto Globe.

There Only Six Nights

There being a Shakespearean repertoire company in town, a Liverpool magnate told his secretary to book a couple of seats.

"Ph telephone my wife," said the merchant, "and leave a memorandum on my desk as to what she wants to see"

A little later the secretary found the memorandum. It read: "Two tickets for Twelfth Night."

The next morning the secretary reported, "I couldn't get the tickets you specified, sir. The company will only be in town six nights"

A NEW HOSPITAL.

Apropos the proposition of a new hospital building for Charleroi and this community: The meeting and banquet at the Elks club Tuesday night developed that the directorate of the Charleroi-Monessen hospital and public-spirited men of the borough and the community are behind the project, and that they know no such word as "fail." Charleroians and the people of the community who are the direct beneficiaries of a hospital are alive to the needs of a hospital building and they have never failed to put worthy things "over the top" when called upon. The dire need and necessity of a new structure to care for the sick and the injured of the borough and community, cannot be successfully controverted.

With infinite patience and commendable loyalty, [illegible] of patriotism most appealing, the nurses and physicians connected with the local institution have endured and have given of their best efforts despite the handicap of insufficient equipment. They are entitled to the thanks and congratulations of the populace whose interests they have so well subserved.

In another way, much credit is due the loyal women of the community who, by drives of one kind and another, have done "their bit" for hospital interest in every way conceivable; and the public also is entitled to credit for giving, at times, until "it hurts;" and yet, despite all these things, Charleroi and this community stands confronted with the dire need of a new hospital building — a structure that must come. Procrastination in the matter can be tolerated no longer. The time for a new building is here and now.

Argument in opposition goes for naught — unreasonable. The healing of the sick, care for the injured, succor for the dying, the binding of one another's wounds—all these are scriptural admonitions. Conservation of health to preclude the necessity of going to a hospital is wisdom in itself, and still, none know at what hour or what moment the hand of affliction will be brought to bear in either personal equation, or upon the brow of those whom we love and cherish. With these propositions in the minds of the people, how can any reputable, home-loving, liberty-loving citizen refuse to give towards a cause which has for its basic principle the greatest good to the greatest number? This is an age of humanitarian impulse brought to culmination, and not an age where cherished personal idols take the place of charitable deeds. We have but one short life, and in this life we should make it tell for worthy actions done.

Of the advantages accruing to a hospital commodious to the extent to properly care for the clientage of a community like this, much can be said. Briefly, a hospital large enough and equipped as it should be, would obviate cases being taken to the city of Pittsburgh, and thus afford a safeguard to our people that cannot be overestimated. The Charleroi-Monessen hospital, like other civic institutions, conserved its purpose well in its day, but the building, formerly a residence, is now unfit for the purposes for which it is used. People are aware of this fact, and therefore should be anxious and willing to subscribe to so worthy a cause without demur of any kind or character.

BOYS' WEEK.

While the weather elements have seriously conflicted and interfered with Boys' Week, the effect of the week's observance and the honoring of the Boys who are so soon to take the places of the adults, is decidedly salubrious.

The promoters of the movement are to be congratulated in arranging for so fine a program as has been presented, Jupiter Pluvius to the contrary notwithstanding. The fact that the Boys of the town and the immediate surrounding community have a Boys' Week—a time in which they can be made to feel that the public takes an interest in them—this fact alone will strike a responsive chord in their natures which will be doubly reflected as they reach maturity.

It is further cause for congratulation, the unanimity of spirit with which the citizens of the borough and all organizations have rallied to the clarion call of honoring the Boys. There is a vein of sympathy coursing through the blood of all honorable, upright adults in commemoration of the time when they were boys. They realize their ambitions, and lend them the word of counsel and cheer in their endeavors. They have traveled the highway and know that the road to success is beset with difficulties. But buoyed and encouraged by the advice of their elders, boys with acumen will forge ahead until they reach the acme of success and many of them, honors.

May the practice of having a week for the Boys, be an established annual amenity in Charleroi.

taking harsh purgatives like Salts [illegible] when you are suffering from those horrid sick headaches and bilious attacks, but take a dose of a purely vegetable compound — LEBANON HERB TABLETS. They act directly on the liver and kidneys but do not cause purging, only a gentle movement of the bowels being apparent. Get a 35c or $1 box and begin taking tonight. Wagner's Pharmacy has them.

"Leftovers in Living" That We All Collect

Among what a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly calls "Leftovers in Living," is "the collection of articles, or parts of articles, which gave the word 'miscellaneous' its name."

"You will find this collection," he writes, "in a drawer somewhere in the house. It has been years in the collecting. No human being has ever found a use for more than half of 1 per cent of the things in it. He never will. They are things too valuable to throw away—and of no use whatever to retain.

"Bits of old wire, a flatiron handle with a piece gone from one corner; a part of an imposing gaslight fixture; a once gorgeous pipe case which held a quaintly designed carved pipe, now broken; one end of a curtain rod; two padlocks, the keys of which are missing; a bit of what is supposed to be part of the good ship Cristobal Colon which came to an untimely end in the Spanish-American war; a souvenir showing how much art a penman could put on a bit of birch bark and dating back to the World's fair at Chicago; a china mug on which in old English is the sentimental phrase, 'To a Friend'; an eraser got up to resemble a bullet.

"To go on enumerating the articles in this collection would be a cataloguer's job. It is a staggering lot. Why such things are saved, nobody knows."

Relics Dug Up Prove China Had a Stone Age

Discoveries made in China by J. G. Anderson, a Swedish scientist, establish, in his belief, that China had a Stone age. At Fengtien the expedition headed by Professor Anderson excavated a cave about 8 by 18 feet. In it were found bones from about 40 human bodies and a large number of objects, none of which was of metal.

The objects included arrowheads, stone axes, bone awls, curious stone rings and a tiny piece of animal sculpture made of marble, fragments of remarkable vessels, some with pressed geometrical patterns and others with a polished red surface ornamented boldly in black. Professor Anderson dates the cave to the transition between the Stone age and the Bronze age, or about 2600-1500 B. C.

Large collections of remains also were found at Yang Shao, including specimens of red and black ceramic objects similar to those found at Fengtien. Heretofore leading experts on Chinese history have held that there was no evidence of a Stone age in China.

Dog's Value in Alaska

In Alaska, where the trackless wilderness and the gigantic snow fields are the general order for the greater part of the year, the principal means of conveyance is the snow sled which is drawn by the malamute, or the husky, as the Alaskan dog is commonly called, says the Detroit News.

Strong and apparently oblivious to the raging of the elements those brave and hardy dogs are the pride of the Alaskans, who without them would be in even worse straits than we would be without railroads or automobiles. No matter how cold these dogs are always ready and willing to obey their masters, and even after hundreds of miles of snow covered waste have been traveled they are ever ready to be up and going at the heels of their two-legged companion, who is usually their friend as well as master.

New Blasting Record

What is believed to have been the biggest blast ever set off in the history of mining was recently fired near Ogden, Utah, to provide material for constructing the fills that are the approaches to the Great Salt Lake trestle of the Southern Pacific railroad. Earth and rock to an estimated volume of 570,000 cubic yards was raised and shattered by the explosion, which used 301,200 pounds of special process powder, equivalent to 602,000 pounds of black powder. A hill 277 feet high and covering a face of approximately 1,000 feet in length was lifted up and separated into fragments. The placing of the explosives in tunnels, aggregating 4,100 feet in length, occupied 25 men for 45 days.

Not to Be Caught Twice

The clergyman absorbed in thinking out a sermon, rounded a turn in the path and bumped into a cow. He swept off his hat with a flourish, exclaiming: "I beg your pardon, madam!"

Then he observed his error and was annoyed. Soon, however, again engaged with thoughts of the sermon he collided with a woman at another bend of the path.

"Get out of the way, you brute!" he said.

Postage Stamps

The history of postage stamps begins with the issues made by Great Britain in 1840 under the postoffice administration of Sir Rowland Hill. Their immediate success resulted in the adoption of the same device by other countries, including the United States, before 1850.

Old Superstitions

Two very old stage superstitions are never to quote "Macbeth" and never to wear real flowers on the stage. This is seldom done, even now. There may be a good reason for this superstition, because if the petals should drop they might cause players to slip on the stage.

Beef Eaters at London Tower

The yeoman warders at the Tower of London are nicknamed beef eaters, and they are all former soldiers who were warrant officers or noncommissioned officers. In their duty as warders they are not under military discipline, and their places are coveted.

New Dance Club Will Have an Ebony Floor

In a big dance club which is projected the dance floor is to be of ebony—the first of its kind. It will be amazingly decorative, but its qualities for dancing have yet to be tested.

The perfect dance floor is a problem. Engineers and timber experts have produced some curiously complex and original structures for ballrooms in Britain and the United States, according to the London Mail.

The nearest approach to the ideal is laid in a London hotel. It is made up of nearly 10,000 small pieces of Balkan oak, seasoned for ten years, and given resiliency, toughness and imperviousness to atmospheric changes by a lengthy baking process.

Smoothness of surface was attained by pressing with electric irons, and the necessary spring is imparted by a suspension system involving the use of thousands of steel springs and wires. Although strong enough to bear 250 tons, its resiliency is retained, and regular "tuning" keeps it sensitive.

Floors laid on rubber and felt are comparatively common; but they have many disadvantages. Thin floors laid on a yielding foundation are very pleasant to the dancers while they are new, but they soon become worn in patches and may even become splintery.

Parquet floors, highly polished and laid on a solid foundation, are very tiring after an hour's dancing, although [illegible] feet and leg muscles as the marble floors on which one dances in some fashionable places along the Riviera coast.

Slang of Shakespeare Is Much Used Today

More slang from Shakespeare is being used the Toronto Globe asserts. The old complaint against the bard of Avon that his plays were "too full of quotations" will have to be amended to read "too full of slang," if our readers' investigations continue. Henry T. Waller of Toronto sends a formidable list which recalls many expressions used by those said to be of short vocabulary. Hereafter they will cite Shakespeare as their authority. Here is the list:

"Will I live? (to Bardolph). Go with her, with her; hook on, hook on."—King Henry IV, part 2, act 2, scene 1.

"But let me tell the world."—King Henry IV, part 1, act 3, scene 2.

"Give the devil his due."—King Henry IV, part 1, act 1, scene 2.

"Our cake's dough on both sides."—"The Taming of the Shrew," Act 1, scene 1.

"It is not square to take."—"Timon of Athens," act 5, scene 5.

"I cannot tell what the dickens his name is."—"Merry Wives of Windsor," act 3, scene 2.

"As a cat laps milk."—"The Tempest," act 2, scene 1.

"Trinculo is reeling ripe; how canst thou in this pickle?"—"The Tempest," act 3, scene 1.

New Discovery in Iron Making

An instance of a case where a little is bad but an excess of the same bad quality makes it a good one, is reported by the United States bureau of standards as a result of recent researches in the reasons for malleable cast iron becoming brittle after being heated. When galvanized, such metal is heated to a critical range of 500 to 900 degrees Fahrenheit and then quite quickly cooled. This makes it brittle. It has now been found that if the metal is heated to a temperature 200 degrees above the critical range and then cooled, it is not only much more resistant to subsequent shocks, but also made immune to embrittlement as a result of subsequent reheating to within the dangerous range.

Praises Burrowing Rodents

There are 2,000,000,000 mammals in California. Half of these are burrowing rodents, such as ground squirrels, kangaroo rats and gophers, which give farmers much trouble, says the Atlanta Constitution.

Dr. Joseph Grinnell of the University of California, however, has a good word to say for gophers and such. Fossils show that they have been in existence at least 200,000 years and he has figured out on one tract of land that in that time gophers have given the soil the equivalent to 3,400 plowings to a depth of six inches. It is all right to keep them off artificially cultivated land.

New Ruins Found in France

Workmen engaged in clearing grounds around the ancient gymnasium near Orange, France, recently uncovered ruins of a temple of greater dimensions than the famous Maison-Garrest at Nimes or the Temple of Augusta and Livia at Vienna. The archeological department of France considers the discovery of great importance, and has ordered excavation to be continued.

Food

Starch is the only food that is changed in any chemical way in the mouth. Starch is gradually changed into sugar in the alimentary canal, the first process taking place in the mouth. Other foods are merely ground up and softened, in preparation for action by other juices.

Never Pick Oranges

Orange harvesting is done with clippers and the fruit is never pulled from the tree. The clipping prevents injury to the skin of the oranges. The pickers wear white cotton gloves as a further protection to the fruit.—Nature Magazine.

Maple Tree's Secret

Before the first white settlers came to the New World the Indians had discovered the secret of the maple tree. Crudely and wastefully they were turning the sap into sirup and sugar.—Nature Magazine.

RICH GIRL IS FOUND GUILTY OF SPEEDING

New York, May 15.—Miss Abby Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was found guilty of speeding in traffic court but sentence was suspended.

The daughter of the millionaire did not appear in court, as she was represented by an attorney. She was charged with bowling along at a 29-miles an hour gait. It is the second speeding charge to be preferred against her, the first being dismissed.

QUESTION OF YAT SEN'S DEATH

London, May 15—Canton officials ridicule reports that Dr. SunYat Sen, head of the South China republic, is dead, the Hong Kong correspondent of the Central News telegraphed today and attribute the report of his death to the fact he has been incommunicado because of a fortnight's illness.

The foreign office in Pekin announced Sun Yat Sen's death officially yesterday, but it never has been confirmed from Canton. Reports of the death have been circulated for the last three days.

Water for Oranges

Irrigation is an important feature of the orange growers' industry. It is particularly necessary in Arizona and California, while the Florida groves can generally depend upon the rainfall.—Nature Magazine.

Germany's War Strength

During the World war, Germany mobilized 13,250,000 men. They were equipped with 60,000 machine guns, 9,000 mine-throwers, 15,000 pieces of artillery and 765,000 horses.

Morphine

Morphine is the most important of the twenty or more alkaloids existing in opium. The therapeutic uses of morphine and its salts are similar to those of opium, but morphine acts more certainly and quickly and is more readily absorbed than opium, is more suitable for hypodermic use and is less apt to constipate and cause gastric disturbances.

In Society's Realm

The Iris Rebekah lodge No. 299 will meet Friday evening in its regular meeting. Following the business session there will be a social for its members and a good turn out is desired.

EDUCATION COSTS LESS IN COUNTRY

Harrisburg, Pa., May 15.—The per capita cost of rural education in Pennsylvania is below the standard set in the cities, Dr. J. George Becht, superintendent of public instruction, reported to Governor Pinchot today.

The report covers the 1922-23 term. The total cost of public education was $151,934,807.

Fourth class school districts where rural schools are located spent only $47,330,864 of the total. Dr. Becht explained the wider area covered by these districts and the need for improvement in the country schools called for larger expenditures.

Spreads Cotton Seed

The wind plays an important part in spreading the numerous down-covered seeds when the cotton plant is not systematically cultivated. The root penetrates deep into the soil. The plant responds readily to differences in climate, soil and methods of growing. —Nature Magazine.

The Sun and the Moon

The sun rises and sets on the moon just as it does on the earth, says Nature Magazine. However, the sun shines for about twenty-nine of our days on the moon, and then is below the horizon for an equal length of time.

Have Own Mica Mines

Mica, the transparent, heat-resisting mineral, familiar to many through its use for windows in heating stoves, has now become so essential in electrical industry that the larger electrical-supply manufacturing companies own and operate their own mines.

Latest Laundry System

A Chicago laundryman has devised a system of handling laundry without the necessity of marking the pieces. The pieces coming from one source are washed individually, each group being kept by itself from start to finish.

Moa

The moa was a wingless bird found in New Zealand, somewhat like an ostrich in appearance. It varied from the size of a turkey to birds 12 feet in height. They were edible and their extermination more than 500 years ago is probably due to that fact.

MISSIONARY AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. H. C. Saum, missionary of India, formerly pastor of the Belle Vernon Christian church, will speak at the First Christian church of this place Thursday, May 22. It has been announced that Rev. Saum would be in Charleroi May 15, but in order that he might be able to attend a conference to be held in Monessen, May 20, he changed his plans accordingly. Rev. Saum has had many interesting experiences while in India and his talk will be one well worth hearing.

Makes Its Own Gas

One large bakery in Copenhagen manufactures its own gas from coal on its own premises, with a saving of about 25 per cent in fuel.

Signal for Battle

The signal for battle of the Romans consisted of the unfurling of a red flag; the white flag has always been a sign of truce or peace.

It All Depends

At the marriage altar he agrees to endow her with all his worldly goods and she promises to love, honor and obey—but do they make good?

Difficult Task

It is sometimes easier for a girl to think she is pretty than it is for her to make other girls think so.

Stork Is Protected

Because it feeds on carrion and snakes, the East Indian stork, called the adjutant, is protected by law.

What's in a Name?

A man named Damrich has just been sent to a poorhouse in Kansas as a pauper.

Humanity in Trapping

Experts are trying to find a way in which poison gas will kill wild animals as soon as they are trapped.

Friends

If you want to keep your friends, you will have to do a lot of forgiving; and if you love them, you want to.

Gloomiest Place

Saddest, gloomiest place on the face of the earth was once the old-fashioned little country railroad depot.
